Part poet, part storyteller, part philosopher, Rives is the co-host of TEDActive as well as a frequent TED speaker. On stage, his poems burst in many directions, exposing multiple layers and unexpected treats: childhood memories, grown-up humor, notions of love and lust, of what is lost forever and of what's still out there waiting to unfold. Chimborazo. A regular on HBO's Def Poetry Jam ...

Terre de Rives. This is a blurred world, as ancient, eternal, fissured in its atavistic substance, purely, as it would seem, natural. A land of shores which, in the dying summer, turn blue, clouding the daytime amber. Robert Ferri's landscapes possess a vast array of greys and blues. Their banks? Moors, of which we sense, more than we see, the vastness, in the continuation of stretches of ...
