The Love of a Rogue is book three in The Heart of a Duke Series by Christi Caldwell. Although this is in a series, it can be read as a stand alone story. However, I strongly recommend the reader indulges and begins at the beginning. These characters are woven throughout her books and come together in a beautiful tapestry.

The December deluge. Record rain. A drought buster. Any and all of those descriptions only begin to tell the story of what happened at Rogue Farms in December of 2015. A series of winter storms rocked Northwest Oregon for weeks, dumping record amounts of rain in the Willamette Valley and heavy snow in the Cascades. Mudslides closed roads and sent houses tumbling down slopes.

sweet, has a great body, and seems to understand me. He's just like Luciano used to be before things started to go wrong. "No, I can't fall for Dayton. I just can't..." WARNING - Contains scenes of a sexual nature, some violence and occasional use of bad language.

Once upon a time in Mayfair a group of wallflowers formed a secret society with goals that had absolutely nothing to do with matrimony. Their most troublesome obstacle? Rogues! They call her Beastly Beatrice. Wallflower Lady Beatrice Bentley longs to remain in the wilds of Cornwall to complete her etymological dictionary. Too bad her brother's Gothic mansion is under renovation. How can she work with an annoyingly arrogant and too-handsome rogue swinging a hammer nearby? Rogue. Scoundrel. Call him anything you like as long as you pay him. Navy man Stamford Wright is leaving England soon and renovating Thornhill House is just a job. It's not about the duke's bookish sister or her fiery copper hair. Or the etymology lessons the prim-yet-alluring lady insists on giving him. Or the forbidden things he'd love to teach her. They say never mix business with pleasure. But when Beatrice and Ford aren't arguing, they're kissing. Sometimes temptation proves too strong to resist—even if the cost is a heart.

Elaine bolted. Her feet scrambled zigzag towards the main door avoiding the general clutter of furniture she knew was there. But the man didn't have her advantage in the dark. From behind her, she heard a thump followed by a muted curse. Elaine hoped that gained her the precious seconds she needed to escape from the house and the vile clutches of this dangerous intruder. Once outside, she would bring the whole block down on him with her ear splitting screaming! She reached the door, turned the knob, pulled at it. A slice of light from the hallway streamed in. Yes! Bang! The door closed in her face, and she, slammed against it. No! No. No! Hopes dashed, fear hammered against her breast. She grappled to draw back the air that had left her at the impact. It seemed to her as though the intruder had pitched his entire weight after her to cut her flight. Hands barred to her sides, Elaine tried fighting his hold with her meagre strength—all useless. She was jammed between the door and this large man twice her size. To top it all off, this unproductive tussle was putting a serious constraint on her lungs already depleted of air. She would have to say something, somehow try to persuade this man to let her go. Please.. Y.. You wouldn't find anything here. There's nothing of va..value. A hard thrust of his lean hips against the plush rounds of her soft buttocks stole a gasp from her. I beg to differ. A hoarse whisper wafted over her ear, its barely restrained anger evident.
