NO PLACE TO FALL by Jaye Robin Brown is a fast read, one I consumed quickly (and you will too!) and enjoyed every moment. That isn't to say that this is a fluffy read; it tackles some very serious issues--a dysfunctional family, drug use, small town tensions, love and loyalty--but they're handled well and in a way that made me root for Amber.

No Place to Fall follows sixteen year old Amber Vaughan – a good girl who sings solos at her local church, always does her homework, and helps out her family with babysitting her baby nephew and also trying to keep her family together. But Amber 's one release is visiting the hikers that travel through the Appalachian Trails near her home and releasing all her pent up frustration by being a bit wild, making out with strange guys and getting drunk.
