(a) he is from God so we should believe him, (b) he is not guided by God, (c) we can't know anything about him. If the Bible writers could infallibly predict the future, surely this would indicate God was working through them.

Why Believe in God, Jesus and the Bible? Christian Evidences
Pascal's wager is an argument in philosophy presented by the seventeenth-century French philosopher, theologian, mathematician and physicist, Blaise Pascal. It posits that humans bet with their lives that God either exists or does not. Pascal argues that a rational person should live as though God exists and seek to believe in God. If God does not actually exist, such a person will have only a finite loss, whereas if God does exist, he stands to receive infinite gains and avoid infinite losses.
